Lawyers' Ball Will Feature Fan Dance Trio, TV Star

The lawyers, friendly enemies of the foresters, sponsor their annual barrister's ball tomorrow night in the Jungle club of the Missoula hotel at 9 p.m.

During the past week, the law school association has thrown several pointed jibes at the foresters and their annual shindig which takes place Feb. 9 and 10.

The lawyers announced that at their ball they would award a prize to the gentleman looking most unlike a forester. They explained that the action was taken to promote social graces on campus and to steer the student body away from such degenerative practices as are exemplified by the Forester's ball.

Jim Lucas, Miles City, publicity chairman, announced yesterday the mid-evening floorshow plans include a dancing star, a harmonica player, and a fan dance act.

John Lester To Give Recital

The music school will present John Lester, professor of music, in a faculty recital Sunday at 3 o'clock in the Student Union auditorium.

Lester was graduated from Southwestern university, Texas, with the degrees of bachelor of arts and bachelor of music. He continued his music studies in New York City, France, Italy, and Germany. While in Europe, he appeared in Italian operas in Milan and other cities.

Sunday, Lester will sing "Air From Orfeo," Monteverdi; "Le Beau Sejour," J. J. Rousseau; "Chanson a Manger," Lemaire; "To the Distant Beloved," Beethoven; "Nemico della Patria," from Andrea Chenier; Umberto Ciodano; "Der Tambour" and "Er Ist's," Hugo Wolf; "Traum durch die Damerung," Richard Strauss; "O Liebliche Wangen," Brahms; "A Prelude," Clokey; "The Brooklet Came from the Mountain," Cadman; "Hop-Li, the Rickshaw Man," Manning; and "Mister Jim," Matotte.

Society to Present Satirical War Film

The French film "Generals Without Buttons," which will be presented by the University Film Society Sunday evening, is based on a feud between two villages. This has been carried on for several generations until warring factions are children, Virginia Bulen, Missoula, film society manager, said.

"The movie is a satire on the rivalries and absurdities, which, on a larger scale, cause war between nations," Miss Bulen said.

"This pseudo-war includes false heroism, and useless sacrifice on the part of the children. When they finally recognize the prejudice of their parents and the futility of the whole affair, they decide to end the war."

"But no sooner have they topped squabbling than their parents renew the old feud," she added.

The film was directed by Jacques Daroy and Eugene Deslaw. The cast includes Jean Murat and Claude Mayan, in addition to several non-professional children.

Masquers Play Opens Feb. 6

The first performance of "Joan of Lorraine," Maxwell Anderson's drama based on the life of the Maid of Orleans, opened Oct. 29, 1946, in the Lisner auditorium, in Washington, D. C. It was the first major attraction to play at the Lisner, because this was the one large theater in Washington to lift the ban on the policy of Negro and white segregation in the audience.

The play opened in New York at the Alvin theater, on Nov. 18, 1946, where it played for 199 performances, before closing on May 10, 1947. Ingrid Bergman, who played the title role, had previous film commitments.

Late in 1948 the film version of "Joan of Lorraine," starring Miss Bergman, opened in New York City. Called "Joan of Arc," it was a lavish technicolor production, but little of Maxwell Anderson's original play remained, and the film was not received enthusiastically by the New York critics.

The Masquer presentation of "Joan of Lorraine," which is scheduled to open in the Simpkins Little theater Feb. 6, follows Anderson's play faithfully. The Masquers presented Anderson's "Winterset" in February, 1949.

Railroad Strike Threatens Civilian, Military Production

Washington, Feb. 1.—(P)—The nation's defense production is seriously threatened by the spreading strike of railroad switchmen.

Already some eighty thousand workers have been laid off and thousands of others may soon be off the job. The wildcat strike, which has spread to more than 50 rail centers and 46 railroads may take its heaviest toll in the auto industry. Two-thirds of the country's civilian and military production is threatened.

The armed forces are feeling the pinch of the strike. A spokesman for the Army Quartermaster depot in Chicago says many carloads of combat rations for United States troops in the Far East are tied up. Civilian firms which assemble the "C" type rations say they must close if ration components are not received in 48 hours.

ALLIES TO HALT AT 38TH

Washington, Feb. 1.—(P)—A high American official said today that United Nations forces in Korea, now on the offensive against the Communists, will not cross the 38th parallel if they can fight their way back to that line.

Huseby, Tascher Named Winners Of Warden Prize

Russell Huseby, Billings, and Mary Joan Tascher, Missoula, have been named co-winners of the annual $100 Warden journalism scholarship, James L. C. Ford, journalism dean, has announced.

A journalism major entering the sophomore year is awarded the prize on the basis of improvement and scholarship in the freshman year in journalism. It was established by O. S. Warden, publisher of the Great Falls Tribune and Leader.

Reba Turnquist, Ronan, who was named winner of the scholarship last spring, voluntarily forfeited it this year when she withdrew from the journalism school.

Student, Income Decreases Present Difficult Problem

BY GENE BEAUCHAMP

"Reports from representatives of various campus activities to the business office bear out the need for a fee raise," ASMSU Pres. Bob Anderson, Missoula, said yesterday. "Income from this year's activity fees, due to decreased enrollment coupled with increased costs, cannot adequately cover ASMSU functions."

Advisers painted a grim picture of possible strictures on allocations with scenes of an inferior MSU band, a curtailed intramural sports program, and fewer dramatic productions, Anderson said.

Central board made a move Tuesday to erase that picture by unanimously endorsing a special referendum vote on an activity fee boost from $7.50 to $10. Students will vote on the issue Feb. 14.

The ASMSU budget for 1950-51, approved by Central board last spring, had been based on an estimated average enrollment of 2,700 students, paying an activity fee of $7.50 a student each quarter for three quarters. Enrollment barely topped the 2,800 mark fall quarter, then plummeted down near 2,600 for this quarter. Those figures include graduate students who do not pay the activity fee and who did not figure in the original estimation.

Costs went up—bus tickets were higher this year when the band traveled to Butte, dry cleaning of uniforms was more expensive; labor costs involved in printing the Kaimin went up. Other activity representatives had the same complaint: less income, but higher costs.

Next week the Kaimin will present a series of articles, dealing with the individual reports, in an effort to give students a more comprehensive picture of the ASMSU financial situation. —Ed.)

Music Group To Present Convocation

Mu Phi, newly organized women's music honorary society, presents a variety of musical numbers in convocation at 9:40 a.m. in the Student Union auditorium today.

Charter members of Mu Phi were selected by Dean John B. Crowder early in October. These women represent the best in campus music talent, said Dean Crowder.

This morning's entertainment will include a vocal solo, "Can't Help Loving That Man" by Pat McGinty, Great Falls. Al Jackson, Van Nuys, Calif., will be master of ceremonies. Continuity script has been written by Newton Buker, Victor.

A string quartet will play "Deep River." Dolores Lowry, coloratura soprano, will sing the "Bell Song" from "Lakme." Elaine Schelling, Missoula, and Henrietta Zakos, Missoula, will play an organ-piano duet. Gayle Davidson, Polson; Kaye Millons, Great Falls; Dolores Lowry, Canal Zone; Peggy Mitchell, Helena; and Betty Lou Berland, Conrad, will do a vocal-comedy number.

Betty Bee Young, Lewistown, chairman of the program, will sing a comedy number, "Father, Dear Father." The final number will be a vocal trio, presenting "Blue Moon" and "How High the Moon."

The convocation marks Mu Phi's first public appearance. The group ushered for Donna Buls' Missoula recital, and will sell tickets for the Community Concert series which begins Feb. 14.

Royalty to Reign At Dance Tonight

The King and Queen of Mardi Gras, elected by the students, will reign at the Newman club sponsored dance tonight. Coronation ceremonies and entertainment will begin at 11:15.

Students may vote for the candidates today on the second floor of the Student Union.

Sorority and fraternity concessions in the Gold and Copper rooms of the Student Union will add to the Mardi Gras atmosphere. Dancing will be from 9 to 12 in the Gold room, with music furnished by the Music Men.

Tickets for the dance are 60 cents a person, and are on sale in the Coke store today. They will also be sold at the door tonight, Miss Marion said.

High Time For Action

A controversy that began nearly two years ago has resulted in a proposed amendment to the state constitution. In the long ago and far away, one group of citizens—called the board of examiners—disagreed with another organ of state government—known as the board of education—as to how $5,000,000 should be divided among the six university units.

Since that time, the boards have had a high old time battling it out while the university branches have suffered from prolonged space and equipment shortages and the generous gift of the people has grown moldy from disuse.

The dispute soon became more than a simple question of what school needed what buildings. It developed into a nasty fight between two units of the state government over control of university finances.

Now we have a possible constitutional amendment, proposed by Rep. Winfield Page of Missoula, to "remove our higher education system from politics," that would sack three ex-officio members of the education board—the governor, attorney general, and state superintendent—and limit it to the eight appointed members.

That Montana's university system must be protected from political manipulation cannot be denied. Whether or not this amendment, if approved, would do it is not so certain. It would remove outright politicians from the education board, but this is not the basic point.

The big stink arose when the board of examiners, composed of the governor, the secretary of state, and the attorney general, assumed supreme authority over university finances, overriding an equitable allocation of the $5,000,000—an allocation endorsed by an education board including the three ex-officio members.

It is not the presence of the three elected officials that makes the education board a victim of Montana's shifting political winds. It is the undefined line between the powers of the two boards. What is needed is an amendment that would, once and for all, settle the governing powers of the Greater University of Montana on the board of education.

It is time that a quarrel that has lowered the university system in the eyes of the people be settled and steps taken to ensure that never again may a dispute so detrimental to the welfare of the state and its system of higher education arise.—D.G.

SMURR PICKS UP SIX SUPPORTERS

Dear Editor:

We feel that we must break a long-standing precedent and support Mr. Smurr in his condemnation of the present policy of Central board in the apparently unlimited subsidization of the Athletic department.

We realize that this is the age of subsidies and that every worthy cause should be supported by the long-suffering, activity-fee-paying student body. However, prices were frozen as of Jan. 25, 1951, and any raise in fees would be unpatriotic and would, we fear, lead to these hallowed halls being labeled subversive. Furthermore, since everyone has been urged to make sacrifices, we feel that we should make the supreme sacrifice (?) and dispense with all insolvent portions of the Athletic department.

We have the following suggestion to make to Central board with regard to balancing the budget: GET OUR $10,000 BACK FROM THE ATHLETIC DEPARTMENT!

Very truly yours,
Donald Campbell

Fred Burnell
Malcolm Hursh
Raymond M. Rice

STATEMENTS FALLACIOUS SAYS BUSINESS MANAGER

Dear Editor:

In reply to Mr. Smurr's letter of Jan. 31, I would like to correct a few of his fallacies.

Mr. Smurr was quite correct in stating the number of students attending MSU the past two quarters. However, he overlooked the fact that there are some students who do not pay activity fees. Consequently, our budgets are not based on total enrollment. According to the registrar's office, there has been a consistent decrease in spring enrollment for the past four years. They do not believe the ROTC program will correct this situation.

No Change

The restoration of the $10,000 to the ASMSU funds will not change the current program since it would revert to reserve funds, not go into the operating picture. Therefore, it is difficult to see how a return of the money would correct the current situation in which all ASMSU departments are finding it increasingly difficult to operate within their budgets.

It is ridiculous to compare MSU to St. Mary's. There is no evidence that they have more prosperous alumni than MSU; in fact, their president frankly admitted that they have been operating in the red for the last four years and dropped football mainly for this reason. Our decision to loan the money to Athletic board was based on a belief that a majority of students on this campus feel we should have an athletic program of the magnitude we now have. I believe most students would be loath to see MSU take a position similar to Carroll college.

They Agree

Do the elected students have to submit everything that comes up in Central board to a referendum? I do not believe so and most of the members of the board concur in this.

If any students, especially Mr. Smurr, are interested in discussing the financial situation of the student association, he is welcome to drop into the ASMSU offices and talk to either Bob Anderson or myself.

Sincerely,
Jim Murphy,
ASMSU Bus. Mgr.

The Skyline Eight

(This is the last in a series of short histories on the schools and athletic teams in the Skyline conference. No mention has been made of the University of New Mexico or MSU in that these schools were admitted to the conference only last summer.—Editor's note.)

Although the University of Wyoming has fielded a team in conference football since 1921, they failed to win a league title in 28 seasons of play. Their first Skyline championship came in 1949, but in the past two seasons, they have more than made up for their late start. Last fall, the Cowboys repeated their victory over conference foes and went on to drop Washington and Lee in the 'Gator bowl on New Year's day.

In basketball, however, Wyoming has been rated with the top teams in the nation for a number of years. The Cowboys have one NCAA tournament title to their credit as well as two national championships. In 1943, they came through the annual tournament unbeaten and in 1934 and 1943 they were rated first in the nation in regular play. Les Witte, a forward on the 1934 championship squad, was named to the all-American roster for three consecutive years. And, in 1943, Cowboy forward Kenny Sailors received the same honor. Last year, Wyoming placed second in Skyline basketball competition to BYU.

Despite their active athletic participation, Wyoming has yet to claim a conference track title. However, their swimming and wrestling teams rate near the top every year. In 1950, they placed third in swimming and first in the art of grunt and groan. They were also one of the top contenders in Skyline tennis play.

Wyoming is one of the few schools in the Skyline Eight that goes in actively for ice hockey. They also participate in baseball, skiing, and golf.

The University of Wyoming was founded in Laramie, a town of only 15,000, in 1887. Dr. G. D. Humphrey is the chairman of the athletic board and Bowden Wyatt is the head football coach. Everett Shelton is the basketball mentor, George Cafego heads the baseball squad and Dick Hitt is head cinder coach. The school colors of Wyoming are brown and gold.

The Last Word

BY JOHN OWEN

The athletic scene, both amateur and professional, is rapidly changing before our eyes as we head into another troubled, war-time period. The shout has already gone up to allow freshmen to participate in varsity sports and many schools have all but abandoned their building plans for new, more spacious fieldhouses and stadiums.

The University of Hawaii, along with a number of other schools, has definitely decided to deemphasize athletics for the duration and, all over the nation, state subsidized athletes are scurrying to the protective covering of university ROTC programs.

Montana, too, will soon experience shortages in money, equipment, and manpower. The Central board squabble over finances may end with the athletic department in a much less favorable position as students, in increasing numbers, being to see the futility of athletic building in these uncertain times.

The plans for a new fieldhouse to replace Dahlberg's antiquated barn will no doubt father numerous coatings of dust before construction becomes feasible. But, to look on the "brighter" side, athletic crowds, in the next few years, should noticeably diminish as Grizzly rosters are filled with beardless boys, tired fathers, and the physically undesirable.

Unless the MSU athletic department imports a Hutterite grid squad, Shipkey may find himself with a surplus of shoulder-pads, helmets, and ankle wraps next fall. All but three of his returning players are in the critical 18 to 21 age group and may find themselves clad in khaki before next fall if college and ROTC deferments are relaxed or lifted.

So, despite our glorious entrance into the Skyline conference and laying aside our football power rating, we may once again witness an era when the meek shall inherit the turf.

Tournaments Begin Feb. 19

Ping pong tournaments for both men and women students will begin Feb. 19 in the Student Union game room, Bill Ganson, Student Union recreation director, announced yesterday. These tournaments are sponsored by the Student Union and trophies will be awarded to all winners, Ganson stated.

In the men's tourneys, both singles and doubles matches are scheduled, but in the women's matches, only a doubles tournament will be held.

To facilitate women students who are reluctant to go into the recreation room on the third floor of the Union, Ganson said that time will be made available to the women one or two nights a week providing they request it.

Along with the ping pong tournaments, a pool tournament and a snooker tournament will be held for men. These contests will begin March 5.

An entry fee of 25 cents will be charged all entrants in the tournaments.

Student Patrolmen Tag 500 Violations

Violations totaled nearly 500 during the first three weeks of MSU's parking plan's operation.

Some campus drivers have received as many as five tickets since the plan went into effect on Jan. 10, maintenance office spokesmen said yesterday.

Student patrolmen are reporting more offenses on windy below-zero mornings than at any other time. Then more cars are parked in restricted areas close to classroom buildings, they say.

Air Force ROTC Quota Larger

The quota allotted the local Air Force ROTC department for its advanced class has been temporarily increased. Maj. Newton James, associate professor of air science and tactics, announced yesterday.

Students wishing to enter the advanced course must contact the officers of the Air Force ROTC department in the ROTC building immediately today. Accepted students would have to begin the course Monday.

In order to qualify for advanced training, an applicant must fulfill the basic qualifications, which are either the satisfactory completion of the basic ROTC course or sufficient training in one of the armed services.

Students taking administrative courses may enter the advanced course this quarter provided they can complete six full quarters of advanced work plus summer camp. This would qualify the applicant for a reserve commission.

Seniors taking science courses, namely physics, chemistry, and biology, may enter the advanced course this quarter and qualify for a reserve commission with the completion of this year's course and summer camp training.

Bright Lassies To Receive Roses

Alpha Lambda Delta members will present a red rose to every freshman woman who received a 2.2 or better grade index for fall quarter. The roses will be given to 23 women Monday evening at North hall, according to Reba Turnquist, Roman, secretary.

The presentation of roses by the sophomore women's honorary organization is a quarterly tradition. Members of ALD are chosen during the spring quarter of their freshman year. They must maintain at least a 2.2 grade index for both fall and winter quarter of their freshman year to be eligible for membership.
